Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from An Eulogium on the Life and Character of the Late Hon.: Thomas Morris I cannot but congratulate myself that I am to speak in the house of those whose liberality will cheerfully pardon my freedom. if I should unreservedly sympathize with the sentiments of one who in his political views may have differed widely and strongly from themselves. the There is a greatness of soul which some men possess, that raises them above the bigotry of their age to allow that freedom and independence of thought and action to others which they claim for themselves; and it is but justice to the gentleman who fills this pulpit with talent and dignity, and to those who sustain his ministry, to expect from them that indulgence to our honest convictions of what is truth in politics as well as religion, which probably would not be our good fortune in many other temples dedicated to that God who can be truly worshipped only by hearts truly free. He, of whom I am to speak, was enthusiastic in his love of liberty, and measured a mans Christianity by his devotion to freedoms sacred cause. I admire the spirit, and feel that I breathe in its atmosphere. The address was delivered in the Unitarian Church, it having been generously opened for that purpose.
