Excerpt: .-went and looked Train (Pine) Hill rocks all over, in every crevice; they scrutinized it well but found no money; but it took years for it to die out; there were men from Middletown engaged in it; they had quite a number of rods men engaged in the business. Nancy F. Glass. Where the old lady, speaking of Mr-. Harmon, the same was corroborated by Joseph Parks, as to Mr. Cowdry being connected with the rods men, as stated by Judge Frisbie, we had it verified by Joseph Parks and Mrs. Charles Garner of Middletown; that part of the letter speaking of Mr. Fry, we have heard the same told by the widow of John Francis, who was, at the time, Mr. Fry s nearest neighbor. A young woman by the name of Ann Bishop suddenly disappeared; she lived at that time on Rust Hill; she was last seen near the State line; the rods men gave out word that she was murdered and was put in the pond, and by their rods they found where she was deposited, and a day was appointed to drag her mortal remains from the watery deep; the day came, the rods men assembled in full convention, and tho place thoroughly hauled, but the body could not be obtained; they gave up in despair and left for their homes. In a short time Ann Bishop returned. The greater portion of the rods men were from Middletown, with one Woods as a leader. It...
